2012 has been a crackin' year and we are grateful for all the kind wishes and support we have received from new readers and business clients too. We aim to bring you more information relating to the local area in 2013 and interesting things from the wider district too.

Ultimately, we hope to make you smile and be of some use to you! Let us know how you think we are doing and how we can improve. By all means, send us your stories, poems, and community related content.

Please spend your money locally and continue to support the independent shop keepers and tradesmen that are represented in these pages. Many thanks and All the best for 2013, Liz and things you hadn't even thought of.

Things you thought had gone forever...

Surprises galore!

What a perfect time to visit Haworth's new toy shop, Pippy Longstocking. It's like an Aladdin's cave of gifts and toys specially selected to delight and enthral your little treasures!

From playful stocking stuffers to funky and fun wheelie bugs...there is something to please children of all ages and at prices to suit the pockets of all parents.

Faces will certainly light up on Christmas morning when these retro styled pedal cars are found under the tree. The vintage look is reminiscent of the way toy cars used to be shaped... and it is reassuring to know they are handcrafted in Britain, so you will be supporting British manufacturing if you choose them this year.

And why not take advantage of Pippy Longstocking's offer to deliver FREE of CHARGE to local home/work addresses on large items? That certainly takes the hassle out of shopping!

Daisy Days, the stylish gift and flower shop on Haworth's Main Street is Pippy Longstocking's sister company. You can take a look at a wide range of toys online at daisy-days.co.uk too.

The Bird of Dawning by William Shakespeare (Hamlet - Act I, Scene I.)

Some say that ever 'gainst the season comes,
Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
The bird of dawning singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit dare stir abroad;
The nights are wholesome; then no planets strike,
No fairy takes, or witch hath power to charm,
So hallow'd and so gracious is that time.

TOP TECH TIPS by Michelle Thompson of Cloud FreeIT

Remember when the arrival of the Christmas edition of the Radio Times in the shops got you all excited about what might be coming up on the telly over Christmas? I used to sit for hours circling 'unmissable' programmes, and checking I'd got enough VHS tapes to see us through til New Year.

The 'future of TV' arrived with 'Sky Plus'. We ditched the RT and planned our Christmas viewing by browsing the on-screen 'Planner'. Too slow! Worse, we still missed out when the little box got filled up & stopped recording or started deleting programmes by itself!

Surfing 800 channels of junk is unsatisfying. Finding your Sky Plus or TiVo box full with kids' TV a few too many times makes it tempting to abandon it [Darn that 'series link!']. We went 'FreeView' (aka 'NoView' when I can't get near the TV). Since 'TV on Demand' arrived I gave up planning. You can just browse for something you really do want to watch without having to plan ahead, or lock the kids out of the lounge!

Give me breakfast with Professors Brian Cox and Jim al-Khalili any day (proper 'thinking woman's crumpet' ;-). I can have 'a very good night in' watching back to back episodes of sci-fi and sit-coms my iPad, with a [large] glass of wine and a [small] box of chocs! Connect the laptop via HDMI cable to the big TV and the whole family can watch a movie on demand. Cheaper than renting a DVD!

Being a true Yorkshire lass, I shan't give in to temptation until the current TV dies, but I really do fancy a 'Smart TV' with the 'on demand' services built-in. Santa, Baby... There is currently just one catch to this new era...

I've had 'up to 40Mbps' fibre since it first became available down our street, mostly to ensure a good connection to the office for home-working (but maybe just a little bit to accommodate my love of internet TV ). Warnings about not having 'enough bandwidth to play the programme' should be 'so last year'!

Our connection on fibre is nearly 10x faster than it was on ADSL, yet still gets the hiccups from time to time. When both kids are home using their laptops, games consoles and smartphones, and I've got a date with iPlayer, our connection struggles at peak times. Having checked the wireless network isn't swamped, and no devices are 'misbehaving', the problem can be beyond our control.

Most ISPs conduct traffic management (or 'throttling', or 'shaping'), allegedly 'to share out the available bandwidth fairly for all users', yet when you know you're an 'above average' user and you've opted to pay handsomely for a premium service to accommodate your 'above average' needs, it's insulting to see that buffering symbol still popping up.

Is it insulting enough for me to reach for the Radio Times & a pen and fight for the remote...? Not yet, but ISPs take note! It's not 'TV on Demand' if I have to wait to download the programme in full before watching it! 'TV on Demand' is here to stay, so it's time you upgraded your infrastructure to deliver what we pay for! If I'm paying for 'up to 40Mbps' 10 and a load of buffering simply won't do!

If the Dr Who Christmas special gets interrupted there'll be trouble...

SETTING THE SCENE, CATCH-MY-DRIFT

In September 2010 Chris Bowles came to Keighley to help a friend sort out her paperwork following her separation. The friend became something more, and somehow, Chris never went home! He and Kyra married a year later in October 2011 and now have a baby to add to their family. However, unfortunately for Chris his job in Data analysis did not come with him and he found himself unemployed and unable to find a job. He started to think about working for himself, using the internet as a way to start trading, and Kyra was keen to be involved too. She had worked for herself some years previously in Lancashire as a Venue Stylist.

Chris and Kyra pooled their experience; using Chris' technical ability and Kyra's creativity, they decided to set up a business initially trading on-line selling boxed balloons and party supplies, and then later branching out into venue styling and other party planning. Chris spoke to his jobcentre adviser, who referred him onto the New Enterprise Allowance programme.

As part of the programme Chris worked with a mentor, Candy Squire-Watt, an Enterprise Coach from Bradford Kickstart. Chris carried out a huge amount of market research to be able to plan his sales forecasts, and with Candy's support he completed a business plan. The plan was approved and 'Catch my Drift' was born!

Chris and Kyra suffered a few early setbacks when a supplier they had planned to use let them down, but they recovered and started building their eBay traffic.

Sales tend to be small, so they need a lot of them, and Chris discussed with Candy ways of building sales and using other routes to market to strengthen their offer. Chris said: "It has been really helpful having Candy to talk things over with, it's great to have an outside perspective, and it has let me stand back and plan the direction of the business, and look at different ways of doing things."

Chris and Kyra have now moved on a step and have just launched the website for the venue styling and party side of the business, offering centre pieces and focal point displays as well as balloon decorations and their very innovative 'Candy Buffets'. The service is bespoke, and always done in consultation with their clients to incorporate your personal choices, whilst still remaining affordable. You can see the website at: www.catch-my-drift.co.uk.

Happy Christmas Auntie Peggy
by Paul Curtis

For Christmas I bought my Auntie
A brand new wooden leg
I didn't have it specially made
No I just got it off the peg
You may say it's not a nice gift
Or even that it's a killer
It wasn't her main present though
It was just a stocking filler

Creamy butternut and sweet potato gratin with toasted walnuts

A rich and indulgent side dish for celebration meals, and special enough for a vegetarian main course over the festive season.

These quantities serve around 8 generously as a side dish

- 1 1/2 cups heavy cream
- 2 cloves of garlic, pressed
- 1 pound peeled butternut squash, quartered lengthwise*
- 1 pound peeled and trimmed sweet potatoes**
- 1 1/2 teaspoons chopped fresh thyme
- 1 1/2 teaspoons kosher salt
- 3/4 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
- 2 cups shredded Manchego cheese (or Gruyère)

Peel and slice the vegetables into 1/8 inch [about 2-3 cm] rounds
 Put a layer of sweet potato in the bottom of a large casserole pot or roasting tin
 Make a roux sauce by gently melting the butter and garlic, and then stirring in enough plain flour to form a very loose ball. Allow the ball to cook gently for a minute, then add a few tablespoons of cream and stir well until absorbed into the mixture. Add the rest of the cream in the same way, stirring well between additions, and allow to thicken into a creamy sauce. Add salt and ground pepper to taste, and a good handful of thyme leaves – more if you like. Add milk if the sauce seems too thick.

Pour some of the cream sauce over the potatoes, then alternate layers of squash, cream, potato, cream etc. until all is finished. Top with the grated cheese, cover with foil and bake in a reasonably hot oven for around 20 – 30 minutes, and then take the foil off to let the cheese brown on top – test the top layer of vegetables after about 10 mins – it is ready when they are soft but not mushy.

Put the foil back on top and allow to stand for about 20 mins. Finally, heat a frying pan without oil, and pop in the walnuts and heat for a few minutes until they start getting darker. Sprinkle them over the cheese and finish with any last thyme leaves.

Tips – this will cook just as well at lower or higher temperatures if you are cooking other things in the oven too – just adjust the cooking time. It will reheat beautifully too.

A sudoku puzzle consists of a 9 × 9–square grid subdivided into nine 3 × 3 boxes. Some of the squares contain numbers. The object is to fill in the remaining squares so that every row, every column, and every 3 × 3 box contains each of the numbers from 1 to 9 exactly once.

RURAL MATTERS Back to Basics by Jonathan Sharp

Honey and Honeymoon

to be present so that is a couple of nights a week our sleep is disturbed. This can really spoil Christmas celebrations so I decided this year to have a month off from calving cows, from the 10th to the 10th

We had a special arrival recently, a heifer calf called Honeymoon. My wife has always called me Honey and has also always helped on the farm so I bought her a cow called Honey (who says romance is dead!) This is no ordinary cow, she descends from a very famous (as cows go) cow, Balsom Brae, Pluto Sovereign, that was aged cow at the Toronto Winter fair in 1963 and known throughout the world simply as "The White Cow". She had a grandson exported to Japan that had such an impact in the dairy breeding in the 70's they erected a statue of him! We have high hopes for "Honeymoon". We also had a cow win a life time achievement award: Tewitthall Rudolf Sal has now produced over 100 tons of milk or 215 thousand pints and she is due again next summer... so watch this space, there is more to come yet!

A cow has to have a calf to produce milk. I'm sure most of you know that. It's possible some of you didn't or just haven't thought about it. Once calved she will produce milk for about 18 months and then will go dry if she doesn't calve again.

We aim for the cows to have one calf a year milk for 10 months and have two months off. The most important job on a dairy farm, bar none, is the calving of cows and getting them pregnant again; my whole life revolves around it!

We calve about 150 a year; cows tend to calf during the night and we like

Lesley O'Brien of Freight Train delivers CPC training in her signature relaxed and professional manner, turning compliance into a pleasant and interactive experience.

Driver CPC legislation... Does it affect you?

Q. Do you ever drive a commercial vehicle or vehicle combination over 3.5 tonnes?

If your Answer is YES, then read on!

employ newly qualified drivers without a Driver Qualification Card, and, after 10 September 2014, not to employ drivers with "acquired rights" who have not attended periodic training and obtained Driver CPC accreditation. It's never been more important for individuals and businesses to ensure that they're up to date and legally compliant before 2014. Invest in your employees or your own employability and get ahead of the pack. The indication is that there is likely to be a rush in 2014 as companies who have not scheduled training realize that they could be faced with a shortage of CPC qualified drivers. The likelihood is also that costs for courses could increase as places fill up quickly.

Freight Train can help. Lesley O'Brien, CEO of Freight Train, the locally based haulage training company, brings 30 years' experience in the haulage industry and a unique enthusiasm in designing and delivering CPC training. As a Road Haulage Association (RHA) training partner, and a RHA Board member, Lesley keeps abreast of all key issues and activities that affect the haulage industry and tailors courses to reflect the most up to date legislation and relevant information.

Driver CPC in a nutshell. The Driver Certificate of Professional Competence (DCPC) is a European Union Directive/Law and covers anyone licensed to drive vehicles over 3.5 tonnes for commercial purposes. Both newly-qualified and experienced drivers have a legal obligation to make sure they meet the requirements of the Driver CPC and carry a valid Drivers Qualification Card (DQC), once qualified. (There is currently a £1,000 fine for non-compliance)

Drivers should plan ahead. (As should companies who employ drivers.) There is no advantage in delaying training or ignoring the knowledge, skills and benefits that training can bring to individuals and companies alike.

You should also know, it is already the legal responsibility of employers not to

Built around your specific timescales and delivered by experienced trainers, courses are relaxed, understandable, cost-effective and designed to provide maximum benefits with minimum disruption to your day-to-day operations. Read more about Freight Train and view the 2013 courses online at www.freight-train.co.uk.

Still not sure if Driver CPC legislation applies to you? Feel free to contact Lesley directly if you have more questions. 01274 608900 Lesley@freight-train.co.uk

To discover that the feedback from our drivers was very positive could be excused, but for them to claim that they learnt things and enjoyed themselves was alarming. It really is encouraging that we are already fielding questions about when the next sessions will be. If you need any references, any of our drivers will be delighted to oblige.

Chris Wood, Transport Manager Redhead Freight Ltd.

Drivers seem to think it is wasting their time and they do not need to learn, but we all do and I did.

Eric Markey, Proprietor and Driver, ENS Transport
