Some are saying it is like the summer of '76 and that glorious heat-wave. I don't know, I wasn't living in the UK at that time. All I can say is that weather-wise this has been the best summer since I moved here in 1990. Enjoy every ray of sunshine! While you're at it, be sure to get to Bolton Abbey's Pop Up Beach, by far the best 'seaside' experience next to the real thing.

Local woman, Amy Firth, begins a new recipe column for us starting with a healthier option for tray bake brownies. Don't be put off by the unusual ingredients...they are delicious, honest!

Sincere apologies for the mistake in the children's crossword puzzle published last month where I hadn't spotted the American spelling of plough; Plow! Being from the other side of the Atlantic has its disadvantages in this job, and every once in a while I am caught out.

Editor, Liz Barker

Have a cracking summer!

Fallfest Events Sponsor, the Just Motor Group:

Fallfest, Crosshills and Glusburn's three day arts and community festival 'blasts off' quite literally this September with a fantastic array of events.

"Whether a music or theatre lover; beer drinker or athlete; young or old, we are sure we'll whet your appetite with our 2018 'star studded' line-up", said Sue Ingham Festival Director.

Heading this year's line up will be 'David Live' (Bowie tribute) who according to Chris Evans BBC Radio 2, is "simply fantastic". 'David Live' and his band will take you on a mind blowing tour-de-force across Bowie's musical genius. Always keen to showcase local talent, singer songwriter Callum Spencer will wow the audience on Saturday evening in the lead up to 'David Live' hitting the stage. Callum, together with Beth Armitage and Gaz Keeton will also be performing at the Fallfest Beer & Gin Fest which runs throughout the weekend offering over 16 real ales and 20 plus gins.

Seven local primary schools [Glusburn, Lothersdale, Cowling, Kildwick, Cononley, Sutton CofE and Sutton Community] will launch this year's Fallfest with the 'Great Fallfest Sing Off'. A FREE event on Friday morning, 21st Sept.

Fallfest, now in its 8th year has been lucky enough to secure a main sponsor. The Just Motor Group, which operates the Citroen, Peugeot and DS franchises from its dealership in Crosshills looking after customers in Keighley, Skipton and the Yorkshire Dales area.

Falling Stars Theatre Company, with Director Rebecca Durham, brings the acclaimed play 'The Last Resort' by Chris Owen to Fallfest on Friday evening with a Sunday matinee. Fallfest has much more besides, including the 'Fallfest Five' trail race; Happy Yoga; Funky Flower Workshop; Street Food; Junior Bake-Off; Dog Show and Chloe's Rocket Trail Walk.

SAVE money - SAVE energy - SAVE time

I have very clear memories of going up to Sutton Pinnacle, as a child, to pick bilberries with my mum and dad back in the 1970's. The sun always shone, the bushes were always laden with fruit and the pies that my mum made were, and still are, the best pies in the world.

Inside The Pinnacles

by Antony Silson

Even though I've moved away from Sutton now, the pinnacles still draw me to them on a regular basis. It's usually when the weather is dramatic, or my subconscious tells me to go to sit and gaze across the land of which I have so many happy memories.

There's something exciting about climbing in the darkness to the top of Sutton Pinnacle, or the sheer spectacle of seeing Cowling Pinnacle covered in frost or snow. Just to take the dogs on the short walk from one folly to another is enough to send the blood coursing through my veins.

In terms of the Tower, George will happily come up with me, whilst Molly will dawdle around the bottom gazing up forlornly at me. I still find it strange how these two monuments, referred to by so many different names, hold such power over the villages they dominate. Both technically within Sutton's boundaries (dispute this if you like), they were built within 11 years of each other between 1887 and 1898.

Sutton Pinnacle aka Ethel's Tower aka Jubilee Tower aka The 'Salt Pot' was the first to be built. The brainchild of Joseph Lund, a local textile magnet who also constructed Malsis Hall, we'll probably never know his original reasons for constructing it. I think it was just another Victorian with a big ego who wanted to show how much money he had to those down below in the valley.

Cowling Pinnacle aka Wainman's Pinnacle aka the 'Pepper' Pot was a memorial to the Napoleonic Wars that had been concluded for more than 80 years.

Perhaps a local business person will one day build a Folly commemorating the day Britain voted to leave Europe. We can expect that just before the 22nd Century begins.

I'll leave you with the story of how my eldest son, Jake now takes the dogs to the Pinnacles and swears blind that one day he passed Jeremy Corbyn strolling between those two monuments to capitalism. You never know who you'll find up there!

Yorkshire Loft Ladders, Quality You Can Trust

These days most homeowners suffer from a lack of storage space. So many precious items that need to be kept - but where to store it all? That's where Yorkshire Loft Ladders come in. The company, based locally, offers homeowners the opportunity to maximise their storage space with a loft ladder, 50 sq ft of boarding and a light all fully fitted in less than a day from just £277 + VAT. But it's not just the affordability of the package the company offers that makes Yorkshire Loft Ladders stand out as manager Mark Hodson explains: 'Our watchwords are Quality, Integrity and Value. Quality in the materials that we use for all our installations and the fact that all our loft packages are fitted by time served tradesman so our customers are assured of the best job. Integrity in that we will turn up at the time we say and make sure the house is spotless when we leave, and Value in that we offer our services at a price people can afford. Our business relies on referrals and we get a huge amount of our calls from people who have been referred to us by our existing customers - that simply wouldn't happen if we didn't adhere to our overniding principles.

At the end of the day the old adage that happy customers lead to more happy customers is true and we work hard to make that happen for every installation we carry out!

So, if you want to make use of your loft space, however big or small, call Warren on 0800 612 8359 and he'll be happy to pop round and give you a no obligation quote so you too can make use of your loft.

Here's a great way to make more storage space...

Brontë Parsonage Museum at 90

A History of the Museum in 10 Objects

Emily Brontë's Writing Desk, c1830s – 1840s

Each of the Brontë sisters had her own portable writing desk at which they would work each evening in the Parsonage dining room. Their father would retire to bed and Emily, Charlotte and Anne would write while the candles burned low, shaping and sharing their stories.

Emily's writing desk was made of rosewood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl. It was gifted to the Brontë Society by private collector Henry Houston Bonnell in 1927. The desk's two ink bottles are missing, but the original purple velvet lining remains, stained with spills and splashes from Emily's nib.

For many people, it's the contents of the desk that hold the most fascination. It's a magpie's hoard of pen nibs, sealing wax and other treasures, including scraps of fabric and 'puzzle wafers' – small gummed labels for sealing envelopes, printed with various acrostics. The desk also contains receipts from Emily's time in Brussels, a concert programme, five newspaper reviews of Wuthering Heights (currently on display as part of our Making Thunder Roar exhibition) and a letter which intriguingly alludes to a second novel.

July 2018 marks the bicentenary of the birth of Emily Brontë and it is fitting that the desk at which she wrote Wuthering Heights is included in a new exhibition, A History of the North in 100 Objects, (www.100objectsnorth.co.uk) curated as part of the inaugural Great Exhibition of the North.

So, what should you be looking out for? Well, one of the most damaging aspects of the internet is what is referred to as online scams. It's not just the damage that it can do to you, but the plethora of ways that you can be scammed with.

Computer viruses or malware as it is sometimes referred to are one of the most common forms of attacks. These viruses can take control of your computer, or the virus may scan your computer for personal information. It can also slow your computer down, send out spam email, or delete files. And you may even get a phone call from someone claiming to be from a well-known software company like Microsoft, saying there's a problem with your computer and needing to get access to your PC, including your personal details to remedy the issue. If you ever receive a call like this, you should hang up straight away, no legitimate IT company would ever call you regarding an issue with your PC.

Online shopping is another way in which criminals can obtain your data, if the site isn't well known, and doesn't adhere to the HTTPS standard in the URL, then your information may be held on an unsecured site. When making a purchase online, bank details are required to complete the purchase, and if this information is held insecurely, a criminal may be able to access the data, which would be a less than ideal situation.

Email scams are another popular method. Whilst most mailboxes do a fairly reasonable job at preventing these emails from entering your inbox, criminals will always find a way around their filters. These emails can include fake attachments containing viruses, links to a fake website, or even impersonating someone in need of help that you might know of. Always check the senders' email address, if you don't recognise it, you should probably ignore it!

Flexitarian, vegetarian, vegan, plant based, plant powered, ethical eater. There are a whole host of words used to describe the swelling number of people in the UK who are selective about the animal products they eat.

Once viewed as a niche hippy lifestyle, veganism is now more popular than ever across the UK. It is big business, and its upward trend is set to continue, partly driven by social media, which allows anyone with a computer to research how their food is produced, but also thanks to the glorious rise of millennials, responding to growing fears over health, climate change and animal welfare.

Changing your eating habits can be tough though, especially if you have a family, are on a budget, or both. When I first gave up dairy, I really missed milk, cheese and chocolate, especially the chocolate. Oh, the chocolate... There were vegan chocolate brands - they looked and smelt like chocolate but they just didn't deliver the 'hit' I was used to. And soya milk was terrible in the early days, added to coffee it curdled and totally ruined a perfectly good cuppa. And the less said about vegan cheese the better!

Happily, things have moved on. Anyone experimenting with eating less meat, milk or eggs, or those making the full switch to veganism, now have a whole host of brands and products to explore. In upcoming editions, we will be sharing recipes, tips and where to go locally for veggie and vegan fare.

Serves 10-12 | Refined sugar free | Dairy free | Egg free | Vegan | Kid Approved

Ingredients

- 2 cans cannellini beans OR chickpeas(500g once drained)
- 1 cup quick oats, OR 3/4 cup flour
- 1/4 cup dairy-free yogurt
- 3 tbsp oil OR 1/4 cup nut butter of choice
- 2 tsp pure vanilla extract
- 1/2 tsp bicarbonate soda
- 2 tsp baking powder
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 1 cup of unrefined sugar, maple syrup OR sugar for non-refined sugar version
- 1/4 cup of cocoa powder
- 1/4 cup chocolate chips, or more if desired

Method

Blend everything except the choc chips in a processor until nice and smooth. Add non-dairy milk if your processor is struggling. Stir in the chocolate chips. Add the mixture to a greased and lined deep tin and bake in medium heat oven for 35-40 mins. Keeps well for 5 days.

of steam locomotives. That very locomotive, number 41241, has been welcomed back into traffic during the 50th Anniversary week-long event, resplendent in its original 'KWVR' livery in gleaming 'Crimson Lake'. We had to invent our own liveries for locomotives and carriage in those early days, because British Railways were still operating in their traditional colour scheme, which you now see on many of our locomotives. That livery was carried when 41241 hauled the reopening train on June 29th 1968 and we are very proud to say that we have raised the funds necessary for a £300k overhaul and a small team has put the hours in to get the locomotive ready to haul the reopening re-enactment train five decades later.

We have had a week of celebrating all that the Railway has achieved in its fifty years of operation, with passengers enjoying being hauled by the 'Royal Scot', as well as seeing several other visiting steam and diesel locomotives. We were the first Railway to recognise the importance of the diesel traction enthusiasts, and held the first 'diesel gala', which we recognised with an event that saw a Class 50 and iconic 'Deltic' haul trains.

It is a year of thanks, largely directed to the generations of volunteers who – quite literally – keep the increasingly elderly wheels turning, but I would also like to thank all of the neighbours who do so much to support the Railway. Thank you.

Matt Stroh

This is a very special year for our volunteers, as we reflect on and recognise the achievements and vision of the founding members of the Preservation Society.

With over 40 volunteers receiving the honour of a long-service award for fifty years of active volunteering, you get some idea of the commitment and dedication of our people. We have over 500 volunteers on the books, and it's staggering to think that nearly 10% of that total were here when the line reopened in 1968 and are still helping to maintain and operate the Railway today. We have many more who have retired from active duty, but still help behind the scenes, and sadly several long-standing volunteers no longer with us, who we also remember through the year's programme of anniversary celebrations.

Our President, Ann Cryer, spoke during the celebration events about the early days of assembling the Railway's fleet of steam locomotives as she reminisced of visits with her young family to Skipton locomotive shed to prepare what is now a member of our fleet
