film arts literature life

To book or for more information visit our website www.fallfest.co.uk

Here is one festival that won't require Wellington boots to enjoy!

Fall Fest is the brainchild of retired teacher Sue Ingham. She and a team of dedicated people in the community, including Jason Smith and Katie Johnson, have pulled all the stops out to put on this inaugural event. The aim is to showcase the amazing talent that exists in Glusburn, Crosshills and the surrounding villages.

It will be a weekend packed full of music, film, art, theatre, workshops and children's activities. Come to enjoy the music of emerging bands or why not sign up for one of the music workshops and gain the confidence and skills to start your own band!

Visit the Festival Gallery to enjoy the works of ceramic artist, James Oughtibridge alongside local artists.

Join Janys Chambers - A script writer for Emmerdale, Holby City and Radio 4 and try your hand at creative writing.

You might like to join Jim Woodland and his team to create your own animated film.

Saturday morning the focus is on fun activities for children. There will be lots to do and an opportunity to get stuck in!

On Sunday there are workshops in music and theatre with freelance composer Mark Melville and theatre director Louie Ingham.

A dramatic finale will round off the festival with a BBQ/Roast, live music in the festival marquee and lantern extravaganza!

Above, Kelly Glynn and Simone Gott from South Craven School, part of the team that created the Wall of Art. Jason Smith, right, one of the community volunteers who has played a key role in organising the FallFest.

To coincide with the Fall Fest, South Craven students studying Applied Arts were commissioned to design and install a digitized wall of art that reflects the spirit of the festival.

With months of planning, designing, and coordinating involved, the wall art is now in place at the Glusburn Institute and can be viewed and enjoyed by the community for years to come.

The colourful and dynamic piece is a credit to South Craven School and its team of dedicated students and is an example of how community engagement can benefit all.
