Love it or loathe it, snow is a seasonal "given" one can't avoid.. Like a good girl scout, the motto is, "be prepared"... I wonder if my client, the rock salt supplier in the ad to the left, is a millionaire yet and will he share his proceeds with the rest of us?

Worth Valley Mag would like to wish you and your family a joyful festive holiday season... and may 2011 bring you good health and good cheer!

WINED & DINED

by Claire Smith of No.10The Coffee House

December, and I'm just beginning to feel the sparkle - the almost tangible excitement that hangs in the crisp winter air and upon bare branches gilded silver and white by early morning frosts; there is an air of anticipation as the festive season approaches. Wintertime - the deep slumber before Springtime nurturing secret life within the sleeping soil; brightly lit homes, open fires and candlelight that bring warmth and light into the darker months as we prepare for the oncoming of another year and celebrate the completion of another cycle.

December 21st brings Winter Solstice, the shortest day traditionally known as Yule, after which the hours of light lengthen a little with each passing day. Christmas is a time to celebrate our safe passage through another year. The evergreen tree brought into the home at Christmas represents everlasting life; the mistletoe for kissing under, fertility of both body and mind; the candles that give a warm golden glow to our homes, the return of the sun.

It is not only twinkling lights and the cosiness of home that make the time of year so special. When December hits, my thoughts turn to hot roasted chestnuts, snuggly pre-Christmas suppers writing cards in front of the fire, tins harbouring cakes rich with fruit and brandy from which waft the heady scent of Christmas when opened, and chocolate, rich, dark and tempting. Food is an essential ingredient when it comes to weaving love and magic into Christmas celebrations.

Certain foods seem almost to belong to Christmas; eating them out of context actually strips away some of their allure, diminishes their power. Mince pies fall into this category as does Christmas pud. Keeping them for Christmas endows them with the power to conjure memories and create atmospheres, their arrival announcing the making of a special kind of magic filled with the promise of the season. Dropping silver coins into the pudding bestows both the making and eating of it with the potency of a magic spell.

If you are lucky enough to have an open fire on which to roast your chestnuts, try burning resinous woods such as sandalwood, juniper or bay, which will not only add to the festive atmosphere, but will serve to lift the spirits and facilitate a sense of well being, as well as adding an air of sensuality to the occasion.

Adding a few drops of essential oil - cinnamon, sandalwood or frankincense for example - to candle wax whilst it is still molten will imbue the room with the wonderful scents of the season once the candle is re-lit. Christmas should be a feast for all the senses shared with those we love, which marks the blessings of the past year and looks forward to the next.

Wishing you the very best Christmas and
New year!

THE JOY OF WALKING

Here in England we all take our walks for granted. And yet, there are many who cannot get up and walk at leisure. Perhaps that is what inspired Keighley's David Hart to create a "walking brace" that not only enables children to stand on their own and be supported, but more amazingly allows them to learn to walk independently within a frame. Imagine the joy these children experience when previously denied this normal human activity of movement.

This local man's vision and experience within the medical research field for 20 years led him to develop body-bracing devices for paraplegics. Eventually, Mr Hart built his own clinic, which gave him the freedom of perfecting his design into expanded uses for the frames. And it is here to Dawson Road that parents from all over the world bring their children to be fitted for these Hart Walking Frames, allowing the youngsters a freedom from their laborious restrictions for the first time in their lives.

This picture is of Natasha, and her parents' comments attest to the joy of this young girl in her walker:

"The frame is fantastic. It gives her so much freedom. We use it every day - it is good for her health and to stop her having operations on her legs. She can take part in things - she's been climbing and abseiling. She is quite a fit and active girl and we do a lot of walking, and she isn't always in a wheelchair and can get about with her walker."

Rachael Garwatak, General Manager, and Clinic Technician, Hayley Stott run the clinic with the rest of their team.

"We do a free-assessment appointment to ascertain a child's specific need. If a walking frame is recommended, measurements are taken and, at a later date, the frame is fitted and adjusted for the child at that stage in growth. Every 3 months, progress appointments are arranged for inspection, adjustments and servicing of the equipment, and also to assess and digitally record a child's progress.

THEATRE REVIEW

On a recent night out in Keighley I witnessed a man become purple with rage and violently smash a bottle over a woman's head killing her instantly. Thankfully this wasn't a matter for the police, but the latest production at Keighley Playhouse who were staging a version of the classic horror tale – Jekyll & Hyde.

This was my first visit to this excellent theatre and I was immediately impressed with the friendly atmosphere. This was clearly a regular haunt for many people judging by the familiarity between staff and customers in the bar. It's a shame to tag the whole experience as amateur dramatics as it feels anything but amateur. The sets and lighting were excellent and the standard of acting was as good as many I've seen on a bigger stage. Mark Rundle as Dr Jekyll (and Hyde!) was outstanding and I particularly enjoyed Robert Lister as Utterson. He has such a natural presence on stage that you can't help thinking you've seen him a thousand times before. His eccentric character got plenty of laughs. Upon leaving I overheard many favourable comments from more seasoned clientele.

Keighley Playhouse is well worth supporting. I'm already looking forward to the next production which promises to be very special – The Railway Children – 6th - 11th December. Tickets from £4.00. See www.keighleyplayhouse.co.uk for further information.

A ROOMFUL OF NIGELS

A roomful of Nigels.
Maybe 70 in number
Maybe 70 in age or just look it Maybe 70 won the bingo and had food for another day.
A camaraderie from which I was excluded, hugs, laughs, a secret language
United in their survival of this jungle
The magic delights of the snowflake went unnoticed as they inspected the gifts of gloves and hats to protect them from it.
A bitter sweet beauty depending on perspective.
A scene much like many others
today. Crackers with jokes, turkey, the Queen.
A night much like any other tonight. Cold, wet, no queen, no turkey, no joke.
Thank you they said!!
For giving up your Christmas day
for us.
I came home, lit my fire.
Thank you, I said.

Haworth Parish Church
St Michael and All Angels – is facing a crisis.

The Church made famous by its connections to the Bronte family needs around £1.25 million not only to restore it to its full Victorian splendour but also to make it fit for worship and community use in the 21st Century.

The biggest immediate worry for the Church and its congregation is the roof. Both north and south facing roofs are in need of replacement and there is a major leak right over where the organist sits during the services. To complete this task alone will cost anything in the region of £500,000.

The organ, built by Binns of Leeds around 1880, is also in need of serious restoration and that will cost in the region of £100,000. The central heating boiler is on its last legs and that will cost in the region of £12,000 to replace. If you add in the necessity to re-wire the building as well as restore the paintings which have been covered with years of grime, provide modern toilet facilities and loads of other jobs, it's massive job for the congregation.

A Future Group has been set up to spearhead the fund raising effort and lead the restoration project.

If you think you can help or you would like to make a donation to the Church's restoration funds please contact paul@haworthchurch.co.uk or the Rector, Reverend Peter Mayo-Smith at the Vicarage, 78 Prince Street, Haworth, 01535 648464. A website is being launched on which details of the restoration plans and how you can help will be published. Its address is: www.haworthchurch.co.uk

SIX-RACK

How many six-letter words can you find reading across the racks using just one letter from each?

Target: 30 good; 40 excellent; 45 cheat!

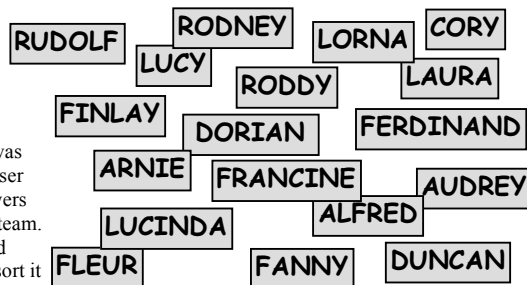

W+O+R+D=S+U+M+S

In this puzzle, each of the six letters has a different numerical value between 1 and 9. Given the total value of all the letters in each word, can you deduce the value of each letter, and hence, the value of the six letter keyword?

PERFECT STRANGERS

Twenty strangers attended a Bridge night and each was given a name-tag. By strange coincidence the organiser noticed that the combined names of each pair of players was an anagram of the two names of their opposing team. He remembered LOUIS and SEAN against SUE and ALISON, but couldn't remember the rest. Can you sort it

Worth Valley Social Media Circle

A new community group has started in the Worth Valley initiated by Oxenhope resident Kevin Campbell Wright and a small number of interested individuals. The aim of the group is to encourage community action and dialogue in the Worth Valley for the benefit of residents and visitors via social media. Social media are media for social interaction, using highly accessible and scalable publishing techniques. (the internet, mobile technology, for example) Social media uses web-based technologies to turn communication into interactive dialogues. It is a blending of technology and social interaction for the co-creation of value. The Worth Valley Social Media Circle will explore the possibilities for community engagement and building value. It is an open group aiming to attract a wide variety of members from the Worth Valley and others with an interest in the area. The next meeting will be held Dec. 8th at Cobbles & Clay, Main Street, Haworth. 7pm www.campbellwright.co.uk/worthvalley-smc/ All welcome

As an established local business with strong links in the community, I aim to continue to offer trusted and valued services.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank my loyal customers and wish everyone a Merry Christmas and crackin' New Year. Thanks for the cup's of tea and little chats, they cost nowt but mean the world. I am pleased to remain professional yet friendly!

My plans for 2011 include the introduction of a new floorcare team that will specialise in delivering the same personal service you have come to expect from me.

Following a pre assessment and initial preparations including the careful inspection of your carpet or upholstery, the team will clear the treatment area and protect the surrounds. Our aim is to be careful and thorough. Don't forget, we can clean dining room chairs, sofas, settees; our motto is "renew & revive!"

- * More than cleaning carpets and sofas... we also provide:
- * General house & office cleaning
- * Property Nurse: inventory service & property maintenance.

Roll on 2011! Kath Thornton and team & competitive

Goodwills Professional

Planning your future for peace of mind

New Year is traditionally the time for reflection and planning. We look back at where we have come from and we consider the road ahead and where we are going. Taking stock, being prudent, putting things in order, is a way of finding peace of mind.

When it comes to protecting ones assets and planning for the future or looking after family affairs, a trusted professional is an important linchpin.

Fiona Best at Goodwills Professional provides discreet and confidential advice when it comes to planning for the times ahead. She brings over 10 years experience providing expert guidance relating to wills, property trusts, lasting power of attorneys, probate assistance services, guardianships for children, safe custody, and guaranteed funeral services. As a trained professional with an honours degree in Law, Fiona understands the nuances of the legal documents that paper ones life. An attention to detail ensures that her clients' intentions are clearly communicated, properly documented, and registered with the appropriate bodies in a timely manner.

Fiona is keen to point out the benefits of putting in place a Lasting Power of Attorney for peace of mind and the protection of loved ones. Should one lose the capacity to make decisions in the future, having a Lasting Power of Attorney in place gives the assurance that affairs will be dealt with according to ones instructions and by a trusted person of your choosing. The important thing is to act before illness strikes or prior to an accident or unfortunate circumstance. Otherwise the far more complicated and expensive route to gaining access to your affairs is given to the Office of the Public Guardian via the Court of Protection and the state overshadows the whole process.

Mr. & Mrs Gledhill from Steeton found that it was too late to set up a Power of Attorney when Mr. Gledhill's mother became ill. They phoned Goodwills for advice and Fiona guided them through the process including the requirement for taking out insurance and the registration of each part of the documentation.

"Fiona was extremely thorough and made sure we weren't paying any more than was required in fees."

Goodwills ensure you get the control you need and the support required to put your affairs in order. "We were delighted with the work Fiona did for us and we can recommend her highly. Our only advice to others is that it is never too early to start planning for the future!"

If you would like to arrange a free consultation with Fiona she can outline the various options open to you including Wills, Lasting Power of Attorney's and Probate Assistance

Holiday Ring

Who said you should never play with your food?

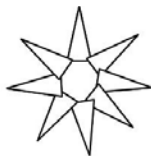

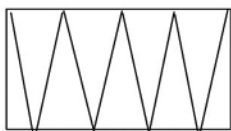

An impressive centrepiece to any seasonal buffet table, or an easy way of turning leftovers into a delicious Boxing Day supper, this recipe from my Pampered Chef days was always a hit with guests. Serve with a good helping of rocket and watercress on the side, or a zesty winter salad of red and white cabbage, sultanas, Satsuma pieces and walnuts drizzled with orange juice, balsamic vinegar and a little olive oil. These make a great balance to the indulgence of the rich tasty filling inside the buttery pastry – and it is Christmas, after all!

- 225 g (8 oz) cooked chicken, turkey or ham
- 75 g (6 oz) fresh broccoli, lightly steamed
- 2 sticks of celery, chopped (essential for the crunch, honestly, and it makes you feel so virtuous.)
- 1 clove garlic (or more, to taste)
- 140 g (5 oz) Emmental, Jarlsberg or Gruyere cheese
- 125 ml (6 fl oz) mayonnaise (please don't use the light version, it will just turn to water when you cook with it)
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard (or cranberry sauce if you don't mind the filling turning a bit pink)
- 2 packets (240 g each) chilled fresh ready to bake croissants dough OR 1 large pack of ready made puff pastry
- 1 egg lightly beaten
- A handful of flaked almonds

please spend your money

Pre-heat the oven to the required temperature for your pastry or croissant dough (180 – 200 / gas mark 5-6) Finely chop the turkey, broccoli and pepper or celery into 2-3 cm pieces, and put in a large bowl with the crushed garlic, grated cheese, mayonnaise and mustard. Stir until everything is well coated.

If using the puff pastry, roll into a large rectangle about 2 cm thick, and cut into 8 or 10 triangles (you can make the last one from the two end pieces put together). The croissant dough comes in ready made triangles.

Cover a large flat baking tray with baking parchment or silicone (or use a pizza stone if you have one), and create the ring by placing each triangle on the tray, like a big sunflower, with the bottom edges overlapping slightly,

Place a spoonful of the mix on the widest edge of each triangle, near the centre. You can sprinkle with some chopped fresh herbs if you have some, or a scattering of fresh lemon zest.

Fold the thin edge of each triangle over the filling into the centre of the ring, and lightly glaze with the beaten egg. Sprinkle with the flaked almonds. Bake for around 20 minutes until the pastry is a golden brown and not soggy in the centre.

The croissant version will rise much better, but the puff pastry tastes just as good, and is more likely to be in your freezer. Don't make life harder than it need be this season.

PPS – after several seasonal tipples, if this gets left in the oven for far too long, you can always decorate it with tinsel and hang it on the front door! ;) Nel

TOP TECH TIPS by Michelle Thompson of Cloudfree IT

Think back to your childhood and your favourite memories and traditions. Is it the food, the toys, the smell of pine needles? Or the fun to be had watching the grown-ups make fools of themselves at family parties?

In times gone by, Christmas or New Year family get-togethers might have included games of Charades, or Blind Man's Buff, and singing carols around the piano. Irrespective of the entertainment on offer the important thing is that kids need quality time with adult relatives, joining in activities they wouldn't normally engage in. It's these memories that hold generations together.

In the 1970's I have memories of playing Monopoly for what seemed like days, til most of the adults went bust and dozed off in a chorus of snoring. And Twister - an excellent way to get maiden aunts to forget about their 'rheumatics', but I recall sitting 'downwind' wasn't a good idea... Sprouts! In the 1980's came Trivial Pursuit; 'Competitive Dad' and 'Arrogant Uncle' in an all out in a battle of wits, re-igniting the sibling rivalry of their youth. Hilarious heated arguments over, well, trivia!

Over the last two decades games consoles made their mark in the family entertainment arena, with accessories such as the Dance Mat, the 'EyeToy' camera and 'SingStar' microphones, turning gadgetry into pretty good party fun for all ages.

When the Nintendo Wii arrived, it brought 10-pin bowling, tennis, golf, and even 'cow racing' to a 'front room near you'. The Wii 'balance board' brought us the opportunity to try ski-jumping of all things. 'Eddie the Eagle' eat your heart out - Auntie Maude's got you 'bested'!

Guitar Hero started a trend for musical games. Console vendors launched a stream of rival products, with Xbox360 Rock Band series enabling true group participation. No more having to 'wait your turn'. Imagine Gramps and the kids playing along to anything from the Beastie Boys to the Beatles; it's 'You've Been Framed' material for sure!

This year the Xbox360 Kinect has just launched. A clever camera detecting all body movements even in low light, it enables a range of games to be controlled without the need for any buttons to confuse the technophobes.

Anyone can join in! It can distinguish between multiple players too. With Kinect Dance games it's no longer just about feet. No floor pads to hit in time with the music or controllers to wave about it really is about bustin' proper dance moves! Watching 'Dad-Dancing' just took on a whole new dimension for the kids of today.

If your loved ones are simply too far away to join you for a Christmas get together, do stay in touch via email at least. Or better still get yourself set up with a webcam on your PC, so you can see and speak to your family on the big day! How about singing some traditional Carols together over the internet? There's bound to be some 'smile mileage' in this!
