'Green Energy Gone Wrong'- Why we must say no to Walshaw Moor Wind Farm

Plans have been submitted to build England's largest onshore wind farm; 65 colossal turbines towering over the wild, ecologically rich landscape of Walshaw Moor in the Calder Valley. On paper, it sounds like green progress. In reality, it's anything but.

This isn't a rejection of renewable energy. Wind power is vital. But placing a vast industrial development on one of the most sensitive and protected peatland areas in the country is not progress, it's environmental vandalism.

Walshaw Moor stores massive amounts of carbon in its peat. In fact, UK peatland stores 26 times more carbon than forests. Disturbing it to construct turbines taller than Blackpool Tower would release huge quantities of carbon into the atmosphere. Ironically, this so-called green energy project would unleash a carbon bomb. The moor also plays a critical role in flood prevention. Its blanket bog absorbs rainfall and slows runoff, protecting communities like Hebden Bridge, Mytholmroyd, and Todmorden, places that have endured devastating floods in recent years. Construction would damage this natural flood defence, undermining millions in public investment and years of community effort.

Beyond the environmental cost, there's a serious economic impact. The two-year build would close off cherished walking routes, including parts of the Pennine Way, threatening local tourism and hospitality businesses already under strain.

An RSPB study confirms that there's ample land in England suitable for wind farms without building on protected peatlands. The government's obsession with scale, the 'biggest wind farm in England,' must not come at the expense of irreplaceable landscapes and climate stability.

This is not nimbyism. It's common sense. We need renewable energy, but not like this. For the sake of our climate, our safety, and our communities, we must oppose the Walshaw Moor Wind Farm.

GRILLED CAULIFLOWER

by Martin Lingard

I'm not vegetarian, but I do enjoy cooking and eating vegetarian food. Some of my friends are vegetarians, so whenever I host a barbecue, I always make sure to include at least one proper veggie option. That said, I've yet to find a shop-bought vegetarian sausage or burger that hasn't ended up in the bin after the first bite...

This is one of my favourite vegetarian barbecue dishes—simple to make, full of flavour, and always popular.

Ingredients (Serves 6)

2 medium cauliflowers

Olive oil

150g unsalted butter, cut into 6 slices

Salt and black pepper

Baking parchment

6 tbsp flat-leaf parsley, chopped

2 tbsp pine nuts, toasted

4 fat garlic cloves, finely chopped

1 large unwaxed lemon, zested

Method

First, fire up your barbecue; you want it medium to hot, as you would for grilling a steak or burger. If you can control the temperature, aim for around 180°C.

Trim the leaves from the cauliflowers and turn them upside down. Cut each one into three thick, steak-like slices from the root end, keeping the root intact so the slices hold together.

Brush both sides of each cauliflower 'steak' with olive oil and season well with salt and pepper. Grill on both sides until nicely charred and golden. Once done, transfer to a plate.

Line a large, inexpensive steel or aluminium roasting tin or baking tray with baking parchment. Arrange the grilled cauliflower slices inside; it's fine if they overlap a bit. Place a slice of butter on top of each piece, season lightly, and cover with more parchment, folding the edges together to make a loose parcel.

Place the tin on the barbecue. If it has a lid, close it; if not, cover loosely with foil to create a tent. Cook for 20–30 minutes until the cauliflower is tender.

While the cauliflower cooks, make the gremolata: mix the toasted pine nuts, parsley, garlic, and lemon zest in a bowl. If you like a bit of heat, add a finely chopped red chilli. To serve, arrange the cauliflower slices on a platter and scatter a generous pinch of gremolata over each one.

She Danced in Every Living Thing

*You danced through life with quiet grace,
In every field, in every place
Where creatures roam and wild things sing,
You moved with light in everything.*

*A heart for justice, hands that fed,
You gave us love in daily bread;
And though your step now slips the ground,
In wind and leaf, your soul is found.*

*I carry all you taught to me
In every beat, in memory.
And when I dance, I dance for two
The world holds more because of you.*

We're steaming towards summer with a packed calendar of running days, live theatre and much more to enjoy along the Worth Valley.

From Tuesday, 16th July to Saturday, 31st August, steam trains will run daily, offering families, visitors, and enthusiasts the perfect opportunity to experience the sights, sounds, and smells of classic steam travel through the stunning Yorkshire countryside. Whether it's your first visit or your fiftieth, there's something timeless about a journey on our historic branch line.

This summer, we're especially proud to present something very close to our hearts — a live theatre production of The Railway Children, staged at our very own Oxenhope Station as part of Bradford 2025 City of Culture, in partnership with York Theatre Royal. This enchanting performance brings E. Nesbit's beloved story back to the valley where the iconic 1970 film was made. It's a magical experience for all ages, and advance booking is essential on the Bradford 2025 website.

Looking ahead, there's even more to get excited about. Our Magical Adventure with the Elf Explorer returns later this year, celebrating 60 years of festive journeys with Father Christmas. And don't miss our biggest party of the year — the Five-Mile Beer & Music Festival — with tickets going on sale in early August.

As always, the railway is kept running by our incredible team of volunteers and staff, whose passion and hard work bring the Worth Valley Railway to life, every single day. Thanks to them, every visit is filled with charm, character and that unmistakable Worth Valley warmth.

We look forward to welcoming you on board this summer — whether you're here for the theatre, the trains, or just a great day out in Yorkshire.

Wild Uplands

by Liz Barker

Muamba Posy by Vanessa da Silva

Temporary Guests: Sculptures and Stories on the Hill

An invitation to pause, puzzle, and see differently. Walkers on Penistone Hill this summer will have noticed something unfamiliar among the quarry stone, bracken and heather: towering sculptures, giant butterflies, and strange new forms placed in the landscape. These are part of Wild Uplands, a temporary outdoor sculpture trail created for Bradford 2025's UK City of Culture programme. Reactions have been mixed. Some people are delighted. Others puzzled; and some are just not keen. And that's OK. Public art doesn't need universal approval. What it offers instead is a moment, a pause, a question, a different angle. A chance to see something anew, or not. Take Steve Messam's Tower. From a distance, it might seem comic, something out of Spinal Tap: a woolly, Stonehenge-like structure, plonked on the hill, incongruous and questionable. But walk up to it and something shifts. Its bulk feels monolithic and modern. You can duck inside the arch to find shelter from the wind; sound is muffled by the thick fleece. It's tactile, slightly ridiculous, and quietly profound. It makes me smile. And like the sheep it references, it even sheds, tufts of wool catching on the breeze. In the former quarry spoil, Meherunnisa Asad's 99 Butterflies cluster around a popular watering hole. Looking down from the hill above the installation, the butterflies jar at first, almost littering the landscape, and taking space where locals notoriously like to linger with their dogs or horses. It is necessary to walk down and get up close to the butterflies to fully appreciate their beauty. Pink onyx wings, hand-carved by artisans in Pakistan, reveal intricate patterns and decorative details. They are fairly weighty and rigid objects, ironically grounded and immovable, though not suitable for crawling or climbing on like the Muamba Posy installation further along the trail. To me, the butterflies speak of migration and arriving in a new place, seen but not always appreciated or understood.

Vanessa da Silva's Muamba Posy sculptures look like they've bloomed straight from a Virtual Reality dreamscape. Flower-like formations, biological shapes, but not as we know them. These sturdy forms are made for sitting, leaning, and interacting with. They speak of transformation, otherness, diaspora, and new roots taking hold. Unapologetically vibrant, they feel present and alive, cheerfully alien. And then there's Monira Al Qadiri's Children of Smokeless Fire: mythical figures drawn from Middle Eastern folklore. "Smokeless fire" refers to Djinn, beings made from pure energy. The figures are flat, yet somehow multi-dimensional, like echoes from another realm. They bring to mind our own Cottingley Fairies, famously photographed just a few miles away over a century ago. Both sets of beings blur myth and belief, inviting curiosity and storytelling in equal measure.

Threaded through all of this is Earth & Sky, a GPS-triggered soundscape by Opera North. As you move through the landscape, it blends poetry, field recordings, and music, creating an auditory experience some describe as dreamlike, though others walk through without noticing it at all. Not everyone wants to engage deeply with art on a walk. Some prefer the moors just as they are and that's fair too. These are shared spaces. Wild Uplands offers a second look. A reason to linger. A question to carry. And maybe that's the point: not to instruct, but to invite. To make space for humour, strangeness, and surprise. To ask whether the unfamiliar really threatens us or whether it might just be waiting for us to look a little closer. The sculptures remain in place until October. You might find something interesting in them: a story, a shelter, or even a smile. For more information, maps and walking routes visit bradford2025.co.uk.

BEHIND THE SCENES AT THE MUSEUM

We're heading into our busy period here at the Parsonage, and we've got loads of events coming up to keep the whole family entertained this summer!

Join us for a day of creativity and inspiration on Saturday 26 July, at 'Celebrating Emily Brontë: Wild Drawing', a mixed media workshop led by local artist Anji Timlin, taking place on Penistone Hill and in the Old School Room. Plus, on Sunday 27 July, we're delighted to be celebrating the timeless connection between Kate Bush and Emily Brontë on their shared birthday with a Mass Wuther like no other. All you need is a flowing red dress and a Kate Bush wig to take part in this unforgettable dance performance of her 1978 No. 1 hit, and anyone who comes dressed the part will be able to enter the museum for just £10!

As the Summer Holidays get underway, we have plenty to keep little ones entertained at our weekly Wild Wednesday and Busy Like the Brontës workshops!

These workshops are free with entry to the museum, and remember, your ticket is valid for 12 months, so feel free to drop in as often as you'd like!

On Saturday 2 August we'll be hosting 'Brontës, birds and butterflies:

A family day at the Parsonage.' We'll be taking over the beautiful meadow behind the Brontë Parsonage Museum for a day of fun, free activities for all ages! We'll have a live theatre show, free workshops, and we'll be joined by Bob the Butterfly and his perfect match, Gerry the Gerbera, they'll be sashaying down the cobbled streets and delighting the crowds. However, their gardening advice might be a bit hit or miss! For more information on all of these events, and more, visit bronte.org.uk.

Cliffe Castle

Send a Postcard from Bradford this Summer

Start planning how to celebrate your summer in Bradford, as the district takes centre stage as UK City of Culture 2025. Everyone's welcome at The Beacon, a stunning performance space brought to you by Bradford 2025 and arriving for a month long stay at Cliffe Castle Park from 10 July. Perfect to combine with the amazing Ice Age Now exhibition at Cliffe Castle Museum (21 June – 14 Sept). Experience the new production of The Railway Children (15 July – 7 September) in the atmospheric setting of Oxenhope station or head out onto the moors above Haworth to discover Wild Uplands and the accompanying Opera North soundtrack Earth and Sky (until 12 October). August 1st is Yorkshire Day, and this year Bradford and Ilkley have the honour of co-hosting the celebrations. The brand-new venue Bradford Live will be throwing open its doors for the first time for Yorkshire Calling, a standout evening featuring music and poetry with a distinct Yorkshire accent. The fun will continue in Ilkley throughout the weekend including a Yorkshire market, the Yorkshire Beer Festival and family activities around the town. The city centre redevelopment has created spacious pedestrian boulevards and beautiful places to stop and relax and take in the historic architecture of the city. But it's not just the streets which have been transformed, the National Science and Media Museum will unveil its new Sound and Vision galleries on 10 July following a £6m refurbishment and the brand-new Darley Street Market, complete with a delicious new food hall, will open with a fun packed weekend of events (12-13 July). Away from the buzz of the city, step into the beautiful landscapes which surround the district. Whether it's a summertime stroll beside the canal at Saltaire, family time in the park, or taking a more adventurous route across the heather clad moors.

Remember to send that postcard and pass on your invitation to visit Bradford this summer. Find out more at www.visitbradford.com Follow us on social media:

Sue Ryder Because no one should face death or grief alone

Step into a starlit evening to celebrate a loved one at Sue Ryder Starlight Hike Worth Valley on Saturday, 11 October.

Get together with friends and family and take part in a 5k or 10k walk for someone special while raising vital funds to help Sue Ryder continue providing expert care and support to those facing grief and loss.

Kindly sponsored by Stirk Lambert & Co, the evening will include entertainment and beautiful lighting along the route, with walkers passing through the tranquil grounds of Sue Ryder Manorlands Hospice. Along the route, walkers will have the opportunity to leave a star for their loved one in a special remembrance area at the hospice.

The walk will begin with a journey on the incredible Starlight Express train, thanks once again to Keighley and Worth Valley Railway.

At the finish line, participants will receive a well-earned medal, knowing their efforts have helped ensure that no one faces death or grief alone. Every pound raised will support Sue Ryder's specialist care, helping people navigate life's most difficult moments.

Sign up today at sueryder.org/StarlightWorthValley or contact the fundraising team at manorlands.fundraising@sueryder.org or call 01535 640430. Standard tickets start from £20 per adult, which includes a medal and tee shirt. Those unable to take part in the walk can still be involved – volunteers are needed to support Starlight Hike and help make the evening truly special. Get in touch with the fundraising team to find out more.

People seek counselling for a variety of different reasons, often when they feel overwhelmed by life's challenges and need help coping. Haworth & District Gardeners' Show returns on Sunday 24th August for the 105th Show

It's all happening at Haworth Village Hall in Butt Lane starting at 2pm. It is one of the biggest shows of its type in the area and, as ever, we would like to make it an amazing show. The show is run by a small committee of enthusiastic locals, with most of the exhibits grown or made by local people from around the Worth Valley and surrounding area.

There are 111 classes in total including vegetables and fruit, flowers and house plants, baking, jams, chutneys, eggs, beer, flavoured gin, handicrafts and 10 classes for children in 3 age categories. For those who are new to showing there are classes just for beginners. There are also 2 photography classes and the subjects this year are 'Bradford 2025' and 'Railway 200', (celebrating the birth of the modern railway) so get out there & get snapping! It's only 30p to enter any of the classes and children's classes are free.

You need to submit entry forms by 6pm on Thursday 21st August – unfortunately, we cannot accept late entries. Children however, can enter on the day. Exhibits need to be taken to the Village Hall from 8.00am to 11.30am on the morning of the show, then the judges of each section begin the task of choosing 1st, 2nd and 3rd in each class. The standard of the exhibits is always high to test the judges skills and makes for an exciting competition.

The show opens to the public at 2pm with a great atmosphere and all the exhibitors eager to see if all their efforts have paid off. The whole room is filled with a beautiful, colourful display of exhibits. There will be refreshments, provided by the Oakworth Manorlands Fundraising Group, raffle and a tombola. The cups are presented to the winners at 4pm.

Prize money has been covered by generous sponsorship from local businesses and individuals to whom we are extremely grateful.

There's always a buzz at the end of the show when the produce donated by the exhibitors is auctioned in aid of Manorlands. This is a great opportunity to get your vegetables and some home-made baking for the week and support Manorlands in the process.

For more information or to request a schedule and entry form, please contact Ruth on 01535 643437 or Email haworthshow@gmail.com

LOFT LADDERS

Yorkshire Loft Ladders, Quality You Can Trust

These days most homeowners suffer from a lack of storage space. So many precious items that need to be kept - but where to store it all? That's where Yorkshire Loft Ladders come in. The company, based locally, offers homeowners the opportunity to maximise their storage space with a loft ladder, 50 sq ft of boarding and a light all fully fitted in less than a day from just £277 + VAT. But it's not just the affordability of the package the company offers that makes Yorkshire Loft Ladders stand out as manager Mark Hodson explains: 'Our watchwords are Quality, Integrity and Value. Quality in the materials that we use for all our installations and the fact that all our loft packages are fitted by time served tradesman so our customers are assured of the best job. Integrity in that we will turn up at the time we say and make sure the house is spotless when we leave, and Value in that we offer our services at a price people can afford. Our business relies on referrals and we get a huge amount of our calls from people who have been referred to us by our existing customers - that simply wouldn't happen if we didn't adhere to our overriding principles.

At the end of the day the old adage that happy customers lead to more happy customers is true and we work hard to make that happen for every installation we carry out!

So, if you want to make use of your loft space, however big or small, call Warren on 0800 612 8359 and he'll be happy to pop round and give you a no obligation quote so you too can make use of your loft.
